MISSION MOMENT

Peoples of Afghanistan

The longer the Taliban has control over Afghanistan, the tighter the rules for women become. At first, there were promises that women could work and go to school just like before. However, in the year and a half since the Taliban has taken over, schooling for all grades higher than sixth grade (including college) have been banned for all females. In December, they took away rights for women to work in most companies, including foreign aid agencies. Women need jobs to support their families, especially the many widows from the years of war. Women like Alice, Beth, Tina, and Nancy relied on the money they made working to support their families, money that they are no longer getting because of the Taliban's new rules. Please pray for women like these, as they must find other ways to feed their families amid the economic crisis of Afghanistan. Pray that in this desperate time, they will call out to God for help and meet God as their Provider and the one who sees them.

He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will abide in the shadow of the Almighty. I will say to the Lord, "My refuge and my fortress, my God, in whom I trust!" Psalm 91:1-2
